New USPTO-PPAC Members

Wanted to post a quick update on the USPTO Patent Public Advisory Committee - they announced the three non yesterday.

I have heard of all of the nominees – but one stands out.

Professor Kieff is one of the most insightful academics in IP today. I would put him up there with Markus Reitzig : Business School, Bronwyn Hall at Berkeley, and Lee Fleming at HBS.

There are other academics who are more popular for their research – Mark Lemley at Stanford obviously - but in putting out careful, original research that has resonated and impacted the practical development and management these researchers stand out. (Note: Professor Crouch is by far the most popular academic in IP, but not [yet] for research, more for his comprehensive communications of that which is newsworthy to the industry.)

To see Professor Kieff, (and professor Hall as well) enjoy this video. And if I have egregiously left off anyone of no e-mail me or leave a comment. If I get enough interest/feedback – I'll make a top ten.

Cheers,

Erin-Michael
